

TRA – The Voice of the Trussed Rafter Industry - How to become a member

Who can join?

TRA membership is open to all organisations involved with or interested in trussed rafter roofs including but not exclusively the metal plate Systems, fabricators, roof designers, and suppliers of goods or services to the industry. Membership is also open to trade associations and other recognised bodies with links to the trussed rafter industry.

Are there any requirements?

The TRA is committed to stringent standards of quality and service and therefore requires all its manufacturing members to have and maintain a third party based Quality Assurance System in place and to have Professional Indemnity Insurance of at least £1million. (These requirements may vary for other categories of membership). If you already have these in place we can quickly arrange membership. Just fill in the form on the reverse or contact the TRA office at the address below. Please note the QA requirement for membership can be met via CE marking FPC certification for Trussed Rafters and/ or Metal Web Joists

What if I don't have a QA Certificate?

Applicants who do not have QA system in place may be considered for probationary membership for a maximum of 12 months to allow them to implement the requirements of the scheme. To help prospective members the TRA can provide information about the process and potential suppliers in the form of consultants and Notified Bodies.

What if I don't have Professional Indemnity (P I) Insurance?

Any member carrying out a design role needs to have PI Insurance in place. Competitive rates are available to TRA members from the TRA's preferred broker. Please note that all manufacturers must have their own PI Insurance in place and not rely on that provided by the Systems. Product Liability insurance is not acceptable in place of PI Insurance.

How much does it cost?

A schedule of fees is available on request from the TRA office. Costs are based on the type of membership and number of manufacturing sites.
